Commentary

The Fund posted a negative performance this month underperforming the benchmark following the declines registered on equity investments, while fixed-income investments posted a positive performance. Among stocks, the only positive contributors to the Fund's performance were ETF L&G Gold Mining, Mondadori and Esprinet. ETF L&G Gold Mining rose on the back of the rebound of gold price. Mondadori gained as the company is progressing in the negotiations for the sale of its France magazine business and it finalized the disposal of the loss-making Panorama magazine in Italy. The main detractors to the Fund performance during the month were Acerinox, Fiat Chrysler Automobiles, Danieli and Cementir. Acerinox dropped as both companies cut their 2018 guidance. FCA declined despite the successful disposal of Magneti Marelli for 6.2bn€ and the announcement of an extraordinary dividend as the stock was dragged down by the steep declines registered by the Auto sector. Danieli dropped as the company announced a guidance for the new fiscal year 2019 which fell below market expectations. On fixed income investments, the Fund benefitted from the positive performances of Safilo 2019 convertible bond and US Treasuries, partially compensated by the losses registered on Buzzi Unicem 2019 convertible bond. During the month the main trade executed had been the complete sale of US Treasuries.
