Commentary

The Fund registered a negative performance in May underperforming the benchmark despite the underweight position on equities (equal to c. 35% of NAV) mainly because of the double digit declines registered by several holdings. On the equity side, the only positive contributor to the Fund's performance had been Fluidra, which gained as the company commented about a strong trading in Q2 after a weak Q1 fully confirming the 2019 guidance. The main detractors to the Fund performance during the month had been CNH Industrial, Fiat Chrysler Automobiles, Esprinet, Acerinox and Buzzi Unicem. CNH Industrial lost -19% on the back of the uncertainties related to the trade tension between US and China which may impact the AG business. FCA declined on the back of the strong sell-off that hit the Auto&Parts sector in Europe, nevertheless the stock clearly outperformed its competitors. Esprinet declined by -17% despite posting in-line Q1 2019 results and releasing positive comments on current trading. The fixed-income part of the portfolio registered a minor negative performance mainly because of the losses reported on the short positions on the US Treasury and UK Gilt futures which had been penalized by the decline registered by government bond yields. During the month the main trades executed had been the sales of Saes Getters and Buzzi Unicem savings shares, and the purchases of Government of Norway 2021 bond, Fluidra, Trelleborg and Buzzi Unicem ordinary shares.
