Commentary

The Fund posted small negative performance in April, in line with the development of the equity markets in Europe and performing in line with its benchmark. The main positive contributors to the Fund performance had been Fila, Marr, Pirelli, Mondadori and Sogefi. Fila rose on the back of the news that the company is planning to IPO its Indian subsidiary Doms Industries for a valuation of $200-300 million. Marr outperformed as the company should benefit from the strong growth of the Food Service sector in Italy together with lower inflation which should help the profitability recovery. Mondadori gained on the back of the positive development of the Trade Book market in Italy and positive management comments regarding current trading. The main detractors to the Fund performance during the month had been Esprinet, Iveco, Cementir, Datalogic and Stellantis. Esprinet declined because of some profit taking after the very strong share price performance in March, and also because of negative market data regarding the PC market. Iveco underperformed mainly because of investors fears regarding an economic slowdown in the second half of the year which could hit the truck market. Datalogic underperformed on the back of various signs of a darkening outlook for the company markets. During the month the main trades executed had been the sale of Openjob and Piaggio, and the purchase of De' Longhi and Tinexta.
